

Multi-day hiking trip
The Icefiord Trail

4 days - 3 nights
approx. 45 km total

Camp Kangiusaq

Kapisillit

Multi-day hiking trip
The Icefiord Trail

4 days - 3 nights
approx. 45 km total

Camp Kangiusaq

Kapisillit

7.995,- DKK pr. person
min. 4 - max 12 pr. group
Departures in July, August, September.

Photos by: Lasse Kyed, Krista Tittusen,
Jakobine Tellesen, Johannes Kyed,
Oscar S. Carl - Visit Nuuk

Emergency shelter

Campsite

Day 1

Departure from Nuuk at 09AM - 2 hours sailing

Approx. 17 km hike

Kangiata Nunaata Glacier view

Kapisillit

Kapisillit Icefiord

Day 1 highlights

Glacier view

Campsite

Emergency shelter

Day 2

Approx. 16 km hike
Narsap Sermia Glacier view

Campsite

Wildlife

Day 2 highlights

Glacier view

Campsite

Icefiord

Day 3

Approx. 12 km hike

Arrival in Camp

Free access to kayaks, paddleboards, fishing rods and more.

No tent set-up needed

Food is taken care of by staff

Camp Kangiusaq

Nearly at camp

Campsite

Day 3 highlights

Inside tent

Free access

Day 4

Departure from camp at 12 pm, 2 hours sailing to Nuuk
Free access to kayaks, paddleboards, fishing rods and more.
Food is taken care of by staff

Day 4 highlights

Home departure

More information

What's included:

- Transfer from Nuuk to starting point of Hike, in Kapisillit
- Transfer from Camp Kangiusaq (end point) to Nuuk
- All meals during hike: Breakfast, Lunch, Dinner. It will mainly be dry-food meals until we reach Camp Kangiusaq
- Local guide with emergency equipment
- A night in luxurious tent at Camp Kangiusaq with all included

What to bring:

- Tent
- Sleep system: Sleeping bag(pref. good for -15C), sleeping pad (R-value 2,5 or more) e.g.
- Outdoor clothing: shell jacket and pants, small down jacket, hiking pants, hiking boots e.g.
- Backpack min. 45L - preferably 60L or more
- Waterbottle
- Cup, plate and utensil(s)

Nice to have:

- Binoculars
- Camera

More about the hike

Day 1:

We're hiking fairly far, but also stay in quite flat terrain. There are some animal paths we'll follow but it will be mainly on untouched nature, meaning there is no real trail - it's just a lovely route we've made ourselves in the wilderness of Greenland. Note that there is next to no place to refill your waterbottle until we reach the lake at our designated camp spot - so do bring a fair amount of water before the hike starts. The camp spot is close to a small free-to-use shelter which we will utilize if the weather is really poor. The camp site has a direct view to the deepest glacier in the Nuuk fiord, it's quite far away but visible on a clear day.

Day 2:

We'll pack up camp, follow the lake on the southern side and then make our way uphill. we'll go approx 500 m up on an okay slope and will eventually hike along lakes and little hills, often with a beautiful view of the icefiord. This area is full of caribou and we might get lucky and spot some. Today it's fairly easy to refill a waterbottle by lakes and streams. The campsite is by what we like to call "Butterfly lake" which has a view over Narsap Sermia Glacier.

Day 3:

The shortest day today, we'll hike downhill along lakes and streams to find ourselves at the campsite, if we're quick we may get there before lunch, otherwise not long after. Here we won't need to set up a tent. We will get a proper bed in a large luxury tent with heating, no longer needing sleeping bags. The dinner will be taken care of by the staff of the camp. There are kayaks, paddleboards, drysuits and fishing rods free to use, for those just looking to relax you can grill some marshmallows by the bonfire.

Day 4:

Breakfast is taken care of at the main tent, we'll pack a lunch here as we depart around noon and will arrive back in Nuuk around 2 or 3pm. The morning can be spent however you wish, perhaps reach a small peak or jump in the river for a nice bath if you can't wait for a shower at the end of the day. We hope you'll have had the adventure of a life-time and wish you safe travels home. It's possible to arrange for an extra night in camp if you're not quite done with the Greenlandic wilderness.